IDL Explosives Limited — Capability Building

IDL Explosives Limited, is a Step-Down Subsidiary of Apollo Micro Systems Limited, brings established expertise in the manufacture of industrial and defence-grade explosives, propellants, pyrotechnics, detonators, and initiating systems. This capability is directly relevant to the weapon systems that Apollo Micro Systems Limited is now licensed to manufacture.

IDL Explosives Limited's capabilities in the areas relevant to the licensed weapon systems include:

- ✦ Solid propellants for missiles, rockets and torpedo propulsion systems
- ✦ Explosive fill compositions for warheads, aerial bombs and mine systems
- ✦ Pyrotechnic compositions for chaffs, flares and decoy systems
- ✦ Precision detonators and initiating systems for fuzing applications
- ✦ Warhead design and explosive fill from development through to production

The combination of IDL Explosives Limited's energetics capabilities with Apollo Micro Systems Limited's competence in guidance electronics, embedded systems, and sensor integration is expected to support the end-to-end development and manufacture of the weapon systems covered under the license.

Management Comment

"This license is an important step in expanding the Company's presence in the defence manufacturing sector. Together with the capabilities of IDL Explosives, we now have the building blocks to develop and manufacture a meaningful range of weapon systems for the Indian Armed Forces and for export. We will progress methodically, ensuring that our manufacturing infrastructure, quality systems and regulatory compliances are in place before we scale production."

Mr. B Karunakar Reddy, Managing Director, Apollo Micro Systems Limited
