UP government simplifies recruitment process

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE
Lucknow

The Uttar Pradesh government has barred those protesting for a change in the existing social or political system through violent means, from getting state government jobs, significantly tightening as well as broadening its parameters for direct recruitment to government services.

However, the official spokesman said “political views, pending FIRs, ongoing investigations, past acquittals, lawful compromises, or juvenile Justice Act cases do not automatically disqualify applicants”.

The government has simplified the recruitment process by allowing selected candidates to receive appointment letters before the completion of character and antecedent verification, subject to prescribed conditions. The move aims to reduce delays in government recruitment and spare candidates' repeated visits to police and administrative offices. Under the new integrated policy, appointment authorities will be able to issue appointment letters after obtaining the prescribed verification forms and self-declaration from candidates, even while police verification is pending.

Appointments will be confirmed once the verification report is received and found satisfactory. However, appointments to security-sensitive posts will be granted only after detailed verification, with prior approval from the chief minister as required under the prescribed procedure.

The government order, issued by Principal Secretary M Devaraj, replaces earlier directives with uniform guidelines for first-time appointments across departments.

The DGP (Intelligence) and district magistrates have been directed to provide verification reports within 30 days of receiving the reference. If a report is not received within the stipulated period, the appointing authority will refer the matter to the Home Department for necessary action. Under the new rules, police and local intelligence units will generally verify candidates through available records.

Candidates will not ordinarily be summoned to police stations or required to appear in person, while home visits and additional document requests will also be avoided in normal circumstances. Field inquiries may be conducted in exceptional cases at the request of the appointing authority. The policy clarifies that an FIR, a pending investigation or the filing of a chargesheet will not, by itself, render a candidate ineligible. Eligibility will depend on the nature of the alleged offence and the case's judicial status. Candidates must disclose criminal cases accurately. Concealment of facts or false declarations may lead to cancellation of appointment and legal action.

Candidates facing adverse verification reports will be given an opportunity to present their case before the district magistrate, including through an online hearing.

Existing government employees will not undergo verification again. The policy also covers direct recruitment in corporations, educational institutions, autonomous bodies and local authorities. Pending cases will be processed under the new guidelines.

‘Speed, scale, connectivity have changed face of UP’

Lucknow

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Friday said the unprecedented expansion of road, rail, metro and air connectivity

h a d changed the face of Uttar Pradesh since 2017. In a post on X, Yogi said, “The mantra of speed, scale and connectivity has changed the face of Uttar Pradesh.” He wrote that road, rail and air connectivity do not merely reduce distances; they also bring convenience, save time and open up new possibilities for prosperity. However, before 2017, the condition of these lifelines of development in UP was extremely deplorable.

Yogi wrote, “Under the able guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the double-engine government has transformed this situation through the mantra of speed, scale and connectivity.”

He said before the Bharatiya Janata Party's double-engine government came to power in UP, the state with the largest population in the country had only one and a half expressways.

Today, 10 expressways are operational in the state, he added. Before 2017, air services were limited to a select few cities, but today, with 12 domestic and five international airports, the state's flight is reaching new heights, he pointed out.

“At that time, not a single city in the state had metro services. In contrast, today, metro services are giving a new pace to life in seven cities,” he added.

“This transformation is providing farmers' produce with access to larger markets and creating new opportunities for entrepreneurship. Access to education and employment is becoming easier for young people. Working people are saving time,” he said. “Tourism is also expanding, thereby providing new strength to the livelihoods of local families,” he said, adding that this pace of development is transforming the lives of citizens today, from villages to towns and from towns to cities. “Opportunities for every sector, capacity for every enterprise and growing prosperity in the life of every family are the new identity of 'New Uttar Pradesh' in 'New India,' Yogi Adityanath added.

UP BJP executive to chart future course today

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Lucknow

A meeting of the state executive committee of the Uttar Pradesh Bharatiya Janata Party will review organisational work and advance the party's future action plan on Friday, a senior party leader said.

Addressing a meeting of the office-bearers at the party headquarters, BJP state general secretary Dharampal Singh stressed detailed preparations, teamwork and close coordination to ensure the smooth conduct of the meeting on Friday.

The meeting should be organised in a disciplined and systematic manner, with meticulous planning, and its message should reach across Uttar Pradesh, Singh said.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah will inaugurate the meeting at the Dr Ram Manohar Lohia National Law University here, while Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath will deliver the concluding address, the BJP said in a statement.

State BJP president and Union minister Pankaj Chaudhary, who will chair the meeting, has directed party leaders to ensure proper arrangements for registration, food, transport and other logistical requirements, assigning responsibilities for each task.

“The meeting would discuss the party's organisational work, welfare schemes and key decisions of the Centre and the state government, along with initiatives related to service, good governance and the welfare of the poor, through a political resolution. The party would also announce its future agenda,” Chaudhary said.

State Bharatiya Janata Party in-charge Vinod Tawde, co-in-charges Jagdish Patel, Medha Kulkarni, Anant Ojha and Pradeep Verma, Deputy Chief Ministers Keshav Prasad Maurya and Brajesh Pathak, and other senior leaders are scheduled to attend the meeting, the statement said.

Light rain, cloudy skies mar Karwa Chauth celebrations

Lucknow

Light rain and cloudy skies marred Karwa Chauth celebrations in Lucknow on Thursday, adding to the anticipation among women waiting for a sight of the moon to complete the traditional rituals.

While the weather remained largely manageable, the clouds occasionally obscured the sky, prompting families to keep checking for a clear view of the moon before breaking the day-long fast. Women dressed in traditional attire, many wearing their bridal outfits and jewellery, observed the festival with devotion and enthusiasm. Light showers prompted some to move indoors from rooftops and terraces, while others continued waiting for the clouds to clear.

The weather, however, did little to dampen the festive spirit, with preparations for the puja and the customary post-fast dinner continuing in households across the city. Karwa Chauth is traditionally observed by married women who fast through the day and pray for the long life and well-being of their husbands. The fast is broken after sighting the moon, offering arghya and viewing the husband through a decorated sieve. For Amrit Chanana, 53, who has been married for more than three decades, Karwa Chauth remains an occasion that strengthens the bond between couples and brings back cherished memories. “I look forward to this festival every year and wear my bridal lehenga on the occasion, which brings back several nostalgic memories,” she said. For newly married Arima Chowdhary, 29, this year's celebrations were particularly special as she observed her first Karwa Chauth with her husband. The couple decided to fast together, giving the traditional observance a contemporary touch.

For Vandana Mehta, 35, a corporate executive, distance was already a challenge, as her husband is currently in the UK. She had planned to perform the rituals at home while her husband joined her through a WhatsApp video call.
