Novelis Restarts Oswego Hot Mill

ATLANTA, June 10, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- Novelis Inc., a leading sustainable aluminum solutions provider and the world leader in aluminum rolling and recycling, today announced the hot mill at its Oswego, New York, facility is back online.

During the recent outage, Novelis mobilized its extensive global network of hot mills and finishing operations to support customers. Across regions, teams worked in close coordination with customers and industry partners to help maintain supply continuity.

"Restarting the Oswego hot mill is an important step forward for our operations and, most importantly, for our customers," said Steve Fisher, president and CEO, Novelis Inc. "We are deeply grateful for the flexibility and partnership our customers have shown, as well as the extraordinary efforts of our employees, suppliers and industry peers who came together to support continuity of supply."

With the hot mill now operational, Novelis is working closely with customers to ramp up supply. Additionally, Novelis is enhancing its operations with the accelerated implementation of a standardized operating system, which will further strengthen the company's ability to deliver dependable supply and high-quality products for customers worldwide.

Novelis also expressed its appreciation to the Oswego community for its continued support throughout the recovery process. The company recognizes the resilience and partnership of local stakeholders and remains committed to being a trusted employer and community partner in the region.
