TVK-led TN government scraps ₹27,400-cr Parandur airport plan

RUNWAY QUEST. State is exploring new locations for Chennai's 2nd airport; industry urges speedy alternatives

T E Raja Simhan
Chennai

GROUNDED. A file photo of the proposed site for the Parandur greenfield airport project at Ekanapuram village in Kancheepuram district

Villagers in Ekanapuram, about 70 km west of Chennai, are rejoicing after the Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam-led Tamil Nadu government dropped the proposed ₹27,400-crore greenfield airport at Parandur, which would have taken away large tracts of their farmland.

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay ended the suspense on Monday, confirming that the Parandur airport plan started by the previous government had been abandoned. The government is now exploring new locations for Chennai's second airport, he said.

"Farmers around the region of Parandur have objected to the programme, given that it affects their livelihood. I am standing firm with the farmers and it is important to safeguard their interests," the CM said.

"I am aware of the need for airports for industrial development. We will discuss with experts and find new spots soon without disturbing farmers' livelihoods," he added.

ASSESSING NEW SITES

A few locations have already been identified for consideration; officials will assess the sites based on land availability, connectivity, environmental impact and the extent of displacement before finalising the location, he said.

The government will also pursue the expansion of Terminal 5 at Chennai airport in association with the Airports Authority of India, Vijay said.

The decision fulfils a pre-poll commitment made by Vijay, who personally visited the Parandur project site during the campaign and assured villagers of his support. Parandur airport was planned with an annual capacity of up to 10 crore passengers. The existing Chennai airport handles more than 2.2 crore passengers annually, while its capacity is expected to rise to around 3.5 crore after the ongoing modernisation works.

The previous DMK government had accelerated land acquisition, securing more than 2,500 acres out of the 5,746 acres required for the proposed airport in Kancheepuram district, with compensation significantly above market rates. It would be interesting to see what the present government does with the land acquired — whether it would be returned to the villagers or used by the government for other purposes.

The Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) called for strengthening Chennai airport and fast-tracking an alternative greenfield airport.

"An airport is far more than a piece of transport infrastructure; for a capital city and economic powerhouse like Chennai, it is a strategic enabler of economic growth, global competitiveness, trade, tourism, investment, and job creation," said Ravichandran Purushothaman, Chairman, CII Southern Region.

Credai Chennai said it respected the government's sensitivity to farmers' concerns but viewed the decision as a setback that further delays Chennai's quest for a world-class airport. "Any large land acquisition will inevitably face farmer and environmental challenges, but these concerns must be balanced against the state's development interests," the body said.

Credai Chennai urged that the Meenambakkam expansion be treated as a complement to and not a substitute for the second airport.

Aviation safety consultant Mohan Ranganathan welcomed the government's decision. "It is good that they have abandoned Parandur. It would have been a disaster for Chennai city during floods. They should choose sites that are safe not just from a real estate angle but also from an aviation safety angle," he said.

'A SEVERE SETBACK'

Industry representatives, however, said abandoning Parandur without a clearly identified alternative could delay Chennai's aviation expansion. "It is a severe setback for the airport infrastructure improvement initiative of Tamil Nadu," said J Krishnan of Chennai-based S Natesa Iyer Logistics LLP. The current decision appears to have been made without identifying a viable, time-bound alternative option, he added.

Former Industries Minister TRB Rajaa also criticised the decision. "Extremely sad day for Tamil Nadu. Years of hard work and intense planning to give Chennai the dual-runway greenfield airport it desperately needs have been sacrificed at the altar of politics," he said.

Search for new sites for second airport begins

T E Raja Simhan
Chennai

With the proposed greenfield airport at Parandur now off the table, the search for Chennai's second airport is back on the agenda, with Kancheepuram and Chengalpattu districts emerging as the likely focus areas.

Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay told the Assembly on Monday that the State government had identified a few potential sites for the airport, but did not disclose their locations.

EYEING 5,000 ACRES

Sources said the government would need nearly 5,000 acres of predominantly non-agricultural land to develop a full-fledged greenfield airport.

Finding such a large contiguous parcel close to Chennai is expected to be a major challenge, particularly given the extent of urbanisation and agricultural activity in the region.

Though the government has maintained secrecy over the sites under consideration, real estate and industry sources have begun speculating on several locations.

Pannur in Sriperumbudur and Padalam in Chengalpattu emerged as two possible choices among the locations being discussed.

Tiruporur was also among the locations considered, but its proximity to the Kalpakkam nuclear complex could make it unsuitable for a major airport, sources said.

The focus could turn again on Kancheepuram and Chengalpattu districts

Other locations that figured in earlier discussions include Vallathur, Thodur, Cheyyar, Maduramangalam and Mappedu.

LAND FEASIBILITY

Padalam and the surrounding Chengalpattu-Madurantakam region had previously been examined for airspace and land feasibility for an airport.

The region was also identified by the previous DMK government for a proposed 2,000-acre Global City project.

Aviation safety consultant Mohan Ranganathan suggested that the government should also examine the possibility of developing an airport on reclaimed land in the backwaters between East Coast Road and Old Mahabalipuram Road.

He pointed to airports in Singapore, Male and Hong Kong as examples of large-scale aviation infrastructure developed through land reclamation. "Site selection has to take into account not just land availability but also airspace, flight paths, environmental factors and future expansion," he said.

According to him, the process from identifying a suitable site to commissioning the first flight could take nearly five years.

Goyal urges Japanese firms to buy steel from India, backs safeguard duty measures

Press Trust of India
Tokyo

FOSTERING TIES. Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal with Mitsubishi Corporation Representative Director Juro Baba in Tokyo on Monday ANI

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Monday urged Japanese firms to source steel from India, saying Indian companies manufacture high-quality products.

He said India imposed only a 12 per cent safeguard duty on low-grade steel compared to higher duties imposed by countries including the US (50 per cent), the UK and the European Union.

Answering questions on the safeguard duty during a roundtable meeting with Japanese businesses here, Goyal said India had taken a balanced approach by imposing the safeguard duty only on lower grades of steel, and higher grades can be imported freely.

"Those steel products that are manufactured in India, why do you want to import (buy) from Japan?" Goyal said, adding India had extended protection to its domestic industry from the impact of excess capacity in certain countries. Indian industry has flagged concerns over excess capacity of steel in countries like China.

He said countries across the world are experiencing surplus steel capacity and are consequently taking safeguard measures to protect their domestic industries.

DUTY LEVIED

In December 2025, India announced a safeguard duty on imports of certain steel products for three years, with the aim to curb dumping from countries like China and protect domestic manufacturers from a supply glut. The duty, first imposed as a temporary 12 per cent levy for 200 days in April 2025, is in force until April 2028.

The 12 per cent duty was levied in the first year (April 21, 2025 to April 20, 2026), which was reduced to 11.5 per cent in the second year (April 21, 2026 to April 20, 2027), and further it will be lowered to 11 per cent in the third year (April 21, 2027 to April 20, 2028).

"India even today is a net importer of steel. So we have enough scope to expand our capacity, in fact double our capacity, and people are investing money. When they are investing money they want protection, so that tomorrow they do not face dumping," he said.

Goyal said he had been urging Japanese industry over the last seven years to source from India at least those steel products that are competitively priced and meet Japanese quality standards. "Even if they are cheaper or of the same quality as Japanese steel... somehow they do not buy from India," he said.

LOCAL SOURCING

Goyal questioned how India could be expected to protect foreign companies from trade measures when they do not support Indian domestic producers by sourcing from the country. "It's a matter of concern for me, that's not a fair trade," he said, suggesting Japanese firms to approach the Directorate General of Trade Remedies on anti-dumping and safeguard duties related issues.

He also said the safeguard duty is in line with WTO rules.

Centre to sell up to 6% stake in Hindustan Copper

Our Bureau
New Delhi

The government on Monday announced offloading up to 6 per cent in Hindustan Copper Ltd. This is expected to fetch around ₹3,000 crore.

"The government offers to divest 3 per cent equity in Hindustan Copper through an offer for sale (OFS), with an option to divest an additional 3 per cent (green shoe) in case of over-subscription," Arunish Chawla, Secretary in the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM), said in a social media post.

Further, the floor price has been fixed at ₹514. "Ten per cent of the offer is reserved for retail investors, with an additional 25,000 shares reserved for eligible employee," Chawla added.

Share of HCL closed at ₹573.55 on Monday with a gain of 0.17 per cent over Friday's closing. This means that the floor is nearly at over 10 per cent discount on Monday's closing price.

The government holds 66.14 per cent equity stake in the company.

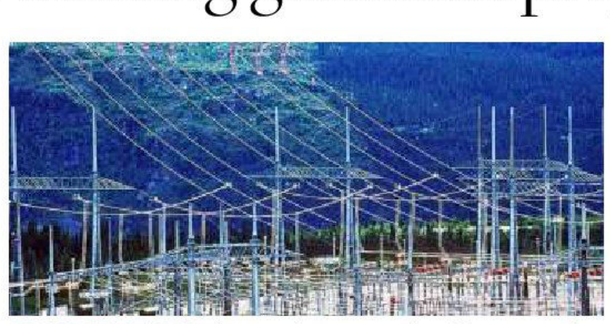
CERC's graded compensation for delayed renewable energy connectivity to aid long gestation projects

Rishi Ranjan Kala
New Delhi



PROJECT RELIEF. The CERC has now replaced the automatic revocation of grid connectivity for delayed renewable energy projects with a compensation-based mechanism REUTERS

The Central Electricity Regulatory Commission's (CERC) compensation-based mechanism allowing RE developers additional time to meet key connectivity milestones will help long gestation complex projects such as pumped hydro and RE plus storage.

The issue relates to the regulator's order, earlier this month, regarding the procedure to levy compensation charges for additional time to achieve milestones under the CERC's (Connectivity and General Network Access to the inter-State Transmission System) Regulations, 2022.

NEW MECHANISM

These connectivity milestones are submission of documents for 50 per cent of the land required for the connectivity sought; achieving financial closure and project commissioning.

The CERC has now replaced the automatic revocation of grid connectivity for delayed renewable energy projects with a compensation-based mechanism. Roughly 5,300 MW of RE projects face revocation of connectivity till October 2026 for failing to commission the project.

Commenting on CERC's new graded compensation mechanism for renewable energy projects, Moody's Ratings said the regulator's mechanism is a modest credit positive for the Indian renewable energy (RE) sector.

By replacing the previous 'comply-or-lose-connectivity' regime with a payable Milestone Extension Charge (MEC), it converts a binary tail risk into a quantifiable cost and lets advanced-stage projects preserve scarce transmission connectivity, it added.

"The benefit is clearer for long-gestation complex projects (e.g. pumped hydro, large RE+storage) exposed to evacuation-infrastructure delays; it is broadly neutral for on-schedule developers and offers little relief to weaker projects, for which the charges could add cost," it emphasised.

For additional time to submit land documents, a developer must have documents for a minimum 20 per cent of the land required and needs to submit at least 15 working days before the original compliance deadline ends.

The deadline and criteria for submitting land documents also apply for seeking extension on financial closure. Similarly, to get extension on the commercial operation date (CoD), developers who are following the land or land-bank guarantee route should have documents for a minimum 75 per cent of the land.

TIMELY UTILISATION

Developers under the letter of award (LoA) or power purchase agreement route should have documents for at least 50 per cent of the required land for the project.

The regulator observed that achieving CoD (project commissioning) is the critical and ultimate milestone towards ensuring the effective and timely utilisation of connectivity and the linked transmission system.

It pointed out that a number of entities that were either served revocation notices or, in anticipation of getting such notices for failure to achieve the milestones, filed petitions seeking additional time to achieve the milestones.

The entities seeking such time are at various stages of implementation of the project.

A number of such cases have been disposed of by this Commission, giving additional time on payment of compensation.

It is noted that there is an immediate requirement to handle such cases uniformly, in which entities have made progress towards project implementation and are seeking additional time to meet the milestones under the General Network Access Regulations, it added.

India cited Trump concerns for skipping press conference

The clarification came after US envoy Sergio Gor publicly revealed that New Delhi had communicated to the US side to skip taking questions by the two leaders

PTI, NEW DELHI: Concerns over US President Donald Trump's "unpredictable behaviour" towards many foreign leaders led the Indian side to opt against a full press conference by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the American leader following their talks in France in June, government sources said on Monday.

The clarification came after US envoy Sergio Gor publicly revealed that New Delhi had communicated to the US side to skip taking questions by the two leaders.

The sources emphasised that discussions regarding leaders' public appearances are standard protocol and part of routine diplomatic practice.

Modi and Trump held bilateral talks on June 17 in Evian-les-Bains on the sidelines of the G7 summit. The meeting was widely viewed as a step forward in mending bilateral ties, which had faced severe strain over the preceding year.

The fresh controversy comes amid a growing perception of a lack of intensity in overall relations between the two sides, with the much-talked-about bilateral trade deal remaining in limbo.

The sources said that foreign delegations meeting the US President are "wary about his unpredictable behaviour as may be seen from his interactions with the presidents of South Africa and Ukraine".

"Thus, the cautious approach by India," said one of them.

The sources said discussions regarding arrangements for public appearances of leaders ahead of any VVIP visit are normal practice.

"In this regard, the Indian side communicated its standard practice for such visits," one of the sources said.

In the course of an interactive session at the Economic Times World Leaders Forum late last week, Gor highlighted the "deep and personal friendship" between Trump and Modi and said the equation between the two leaders makes his job easier.

The envoy then brought up the meeting between the two leaders in France.

"We were behind the stage, and at one point, it was just the President and I. And he asked me, 'What are the Indians going to raise?' We went over some topics and he said 'do they have any asks'," Gor said.

"MEA had one ask and it was let's bring in the media, let's not do a full press conference, no questions." Gor said he told Trump that the "Indians prefer no questions...He (Trump) said, 'Sure, no problem'".
